

newstart

10 October 2008 | Volume 10 No 452 | www.newstartmag.co.uk

Informing and inspiring people who make a difference where it matters

'Need not greed' campaigners were out in force at Saturday's end child poverty rally in London. Coordinated by LinksUK, part of the charity Community Links, the campaign will be officially launched later this month. It brings together a variety of groups seeking to move people out of cash-in-hand work and into the formal economy. It wants the government to acknowledge the value of informal work and provide adequate support to people who work cash-in-hand out of need, not greed. Details: www.neednotgreed.org.uk